

TRAFFIC

Paul looks at his watch. He is worried. He has fifteen minutes to get to his interview and he is stuck in a traffic jam. He looks around. Everyone is honking their horns and trying to move into the lane that seems to be moving faster. They have barely moved in the last thirty minutes. Paul looks out of the window at the people walking past him on the sidewalk. An old woman walking with a cane passed him fifteen minutes ago. He cannot be late for this interview. He grabs his suitcase, opens the door and gets out of the car. He shuts the door and begins to walk quickly down the street. All the cars behind him begin to honk and the drivers start yelling at him. One yells: "HEY! WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU'RE GOING? YOU CAN'T JUST LEAVE YOUR CAR!! HEY!!!! COME BACK!!"

Q1: Why is Paul worried?

Q2: Why does he think he will be late?

Q3: What does he decide to do in order to get to his interview on time?

Q4: What do the drivers behind him think of that?
